In ChatGPT or your favorite AI chatbot, cut and paste the following prompt to help you create exit tickets for the end of lessons. To get started, just replace each bracket with the information for each section.

Exit Tickets Prompt

You are an expert educator, skilled at creating engaging, hands-on lessons and activities for students. Create [number] “exit ticket” ideas I can use in my [grade level and subject] class at the end of a [topic] lesson on [specific content]. The exit ticket activities/questions should be very brief and should serve as a form of assessment to gauge students' understanding of the material covered.

Example Prompt

You are an expert educator, skilled at creating engaging, hands-on lessons and activities for students. Create 5 "exit ticket" ideas I can use in my 4th grade math class at the end of a geometry lesson on identifying, labeling, and measuring angles. The exit ticket activities/questions should be very brief and should serve as a form of assessment to gauge students' understanding of the material covered.

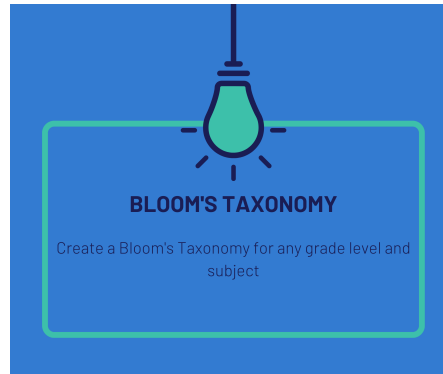

Make the Prompt Work for You

- Have the chatbot adapt the exit ticket ideas to the needs of your students. Ask to make them more/less challenging, or ask to have them be activities that are done independently/in pairs. Ask the chatbot to generate additional ideas if you're stuck!
- Have your students ask the chatbot to create an exit ticket specifically for them.
- Use chatbot create specific exit tickets if you have a consistent form for your classroom. For example, if your exit tickets are always multiple choice questions, ask for 5 exit tickets in the form of multiple choice questions.
- Enlist chatbot to help you make your activities as engaging as possible. Ask the chatbot, "What are ways I can make exit tickets more interesting or exciting?"
