

My idea is to have students use ChatGPT to engage in a dialogue related to the theme we are studying.

So, for example, if we are studying school vocabulary, they would copy-and-paste this prompt (the same prompt could be used for any topic and just switch out, in this case, being at school with another scenario:

You will pretend to be a teacher at school. I will pretend to be your student. We will pretend to have a conversation. I will say something first, then you will respond. You are a teacher. I am a student. Let's have a conversation. I will say one sentence. Then you will say one sentence. You are not to invent an entire conversation. You will only respond to what I say. I am a Beginning English Language Learner, so please keep your answers short. After I tell you the conversation is over, please retype the entire dialogue and explain in Spanish any errors that I made. I will begin now. Teacher, can I go to the bathroom?

Then, after several lines of conversation, they would paste this into ChatGPT:

The conversation is over, please retype the entire dialogue in English and explain in Spanish any errors that I made.
