

Some Typical Prompts for AI Art Generation

Additionally, I've bought some books on artistic styles and terminologies because knowing the words to use is part of making AI art generation accessible to our students (and ourselves.) I'm also asking my sister who is a professor at SCAD lots of questions.

- Artist: ____ In the style of ____ artist. (Picasso, Van Gogh, Monet, da Vinci, Picasso, Frida Kahlo, Peter Paul Rubens, etc.)

This is one of the prompts with artists up at arms (and well it should), for you can also say “write in the style of” and insert a person's name. Or you could say, “write a script for a (insert popular series here),” which is much of why the writer's strike is happening. AI is at the center of Intellectual property debates everywhere.

“As Actors Strike for AI Protections, Netflix lists $900,000 AI Job”

The Intercept – Reporting on Hollywood's Controversy on AI – a reading assignment worth discussing

- Medium: Oil painting of _____ (pastels, acrylics, watercolor, pencil sketch, charcoal drawing, photograph, 3d rendering, cyanotype, linocut etc.)
- Styles: Cyberbunk Style, unreal engine 5 style (or any style), impressionist, film noir, photorealistic, futuristic
- Portrait: A portrait of something
- Types of art: Fantasy, Surreal, Nature, Medieval, Pixel Art, architectural rendering, photorealistic, fractal art, ferrofluid
- Inspiration: Pop icons (another controversial and sometimes not available tool), aliens, video game monsters

Many ideas are out there for generating AI art, and the more you know the terminology and educate your human intelligence (HI), the more accessible AI art generation is to you.